Payment Processing, Inc. Partners with Tyler Technologies to Offer Integrated Credit Card Processing for its EDEN Products

New offering provides a comprehensive payment solution for government agencies and municipalities

Newark, California, March 28, 2006 - Payment Processing, Incorporated (PPI), the industry leader in integrated payment processing, today announced a partnership with Tyler Technologies (Tyler) to offer an integrated payment processing solution for its EDEN software developed exclusively for government agencies and municipalities.

“PPI provided us with a comprehensive solution that allowed us to easily integrate payment processing into our applications,” said Jeff Green, President for Tyler’s EDEN products. “By having one resource that provides technology, merchant account services and a full range of support options, we are able to streamline our operations and provide our customers with a complete solution.”

Tyler’s EDEN product offering includes core financials, personnel management and citizen services software for government agencies and municipalities. PPI will provide a complete integrated payment solution for credit card support for EDEN cashiering, e-commerce web portal and Interactive Voice Response. Government agencies use these solutions for billing and payment of permits, taxes, utilities, and licenses. The EDEN-PPI solution helps agencies get up and running quickly with full administrative and technical support.

“Integrated payment processing for the government agency and municipality sector is a new and growing opportunity for PPI and we are excited to have Tyler’s EDEN products as a partner,” said Tim Murray, director of strategic partnerships at PPI. “By offering a comprehensive solution we are able to offer partners such as Tyler’s EDEN the ability to turn to one partner for all aspects of their integrated payment processing needs.”
